Be on time for meetings. Meetings will start at a maximum of five minutes after set time. If a member of the team is not on time, a really good reason or a deep apology should be done.

Be open-minded and listen to each others ideas. There is no bad questions/ideas only bad responses. Don't take denied ideas personally.

Don't be afraid to ask for help.

Main communication should be held through the groups Slack channel. Communication with other teams would ideally be held in a separate channel.

In the case of a conflict, be civil. If it can not be done in a civilized way, contact with either a other group member or the supervisors should be done.

The social contract might change over time.
